

Technology for kids

Some may argue that technology is good for kids, they get more interested and better skilled than previous generations. That may be true.

Its still possible to let kids play with these values first:

- Simple DORO phone instead of smartphone.
- Reading books instead of digital media books.
- IRL games/sports instead of digital games.

In the end its about combining all values an learning the skills, but when will it be decided as a parent along with the teens interests. That is up to yourself to decide.
